Technical Background

Ensure proper electrical connection prior to antenna replacement.

Service

If during diagnosis of complaints related to malfunctions of the satellite radio or GPS navigation, the testing leads toward replacement of the antenna, first ensure there are no electrical connector issues at the antenna itself (see Figure 1).

If any connection issues exist at the antenna, repair the connection issue and retest before proceeding to antenna replacement. DO NOT replace the antenna before ruling out connection issues.

Satellite radio or GPS navigation complaints may be accompanied by the following DTCs:

DTC	Description
B10F411	Antenna for satellite radio open circuit
