QUATTROPORTE

MASERATI GRAN TOUR ATTITUDE

The Maserati Quattroporte has epitomised the concept of the high-performance luxury saloon since its creation in 1963, when a racing engine was installed into a luxury saloon for the first time. And now, after fifty years, the all new Quattroporte continues to be the embodiment of the classic grand tourer and remains a celebration of elegance, technology and power. The sporting soul of Maserati is released by a thrilling new-generation engine: a 3.8 litre twin turbo V8, capable of 530 CV, the most powerful engine offered by Maserati. An engine, state of the art in terms of efficiency and performance, that enables the Quattroporte to accelerate from 0 to 62 mph in just 4.7 seconds and to exceed 190 mph.

A TYPICAL ITALIAN ATTRACTION

The Quattroporte is an extraordinary car, and its legendary design is central to its purpose. The challenge of combining the sporty performance and classical styling of the most famous Italian luxury saloon has always fascinated the greatest designers: Pietro Frua, Bertone, Giorgetto Giugiaro, Marcello Gandini and Pininfarina.

Maserati's latest creation is a worthy successor to their masterpieces, retaining a streamlined and purely dynamic look. The front is immediately recognisable with the distinctive and traditional Maserati oval grill, with convex vertical bars, leading on to the expansive sculpted bonnet and new front lights with LEDs.

Its elegance is combined with physical and muscular curves that define the sides from the classic three Maserati air outlets to the full-LED taillights and integral rear spoiler.

YOUR RESERVED PLACE EVERYWHERE

Entering the Quattroporte transforms the senses with its purposeful elegance and space. The interior design is uncompromised in its quality and craftsmanship with large, smooth sections of luxury wood panelwork a joy to behold, while the soft leather upholstery is a delight both to touch and to smell. The Poltrona Frau® leather, its surrounding fine wood and stitching is styled in keeping with the purest hand-crafted tradition, with the seamless contours and sleek lines of the dashboard, centre console and doors, enveloping the passengers in an atmosphere of luxury.

Striking brushed aluminium surrounds the 8.4" display of the Maserati Touch Control system, in the centre of the dashboard: a user-friendly way to manage each of the multiple standard information and entertainment systems. The all new Maserati Quattroporte offers the highest levels of interior comfort, making long journeys truly pleasurable. Special attention has been paid to the rear passengers, with plenty of space and legroom to stretch out and enjoy the trip in the luxury of the car's beautifully finished interior.

Created in partnership with pioneering Hi-Fi specialists Bowers & Wilkins, the Quattroporte's optional premium surround system has been designed using the brand's technologies and pioneering use of materials to raise audio performance to new levels. With 15 speakers located across the dashboard, doors and rear parcel shelf, the system has a 1,280 Watt amplifier. Intensive studies on sound source layout and the configuration of the Quantum Logic® Surround system have delivered a level of sound realism never previously heard inside a car.

THAT INSPIRATIONAL BOLT OF LIGHTNING

Maserati has always been famed for its innovative engine design and the new 3.8 litre twin turbo V8 installed on the Quattroporte raises the marque's tradition to new heights. This proprietary Maserati design includes the classical 90-Degrees V layout, for a new-generation engine capable of generating 530 CV and a torque of 710 Nm in overboost. Amazing figures that allow the Quattroporte to accelerate from 0 to 100 km/h in just 4.7 seconds and reach a top speed 307 km/h.

With 95% of torque available at less than 1,600 rpm, the Quattroporte's V8 combines wonderfully smooth running with the most outstanding performance at any engine speed, coupled with a special focus on fuel consumption and emissions. The use of small, parallel-mounted twin turbochargers helps to prevent turbo lag, giving swifter response to every touch on the accelerator and great pick-up in all driving conditions. This performance is derived from the continuous phasing of each of the dual-overhead camshafts as well as the high pressure (200 bar) direct injection system, which improves combustion at high rpm by fully atomising the fuel improving emissions and performance.

OUR WAY TO EXCELLENCE ON THE ROAD

The all-new Quattroporte is a source of enjoyment for both passengers and driver thanks to its thoroughly performance-oriented engineering. Together with the engine, the advanced chassis, transmission and suspension system are the main factors in balancing comfort and uncompromising performance for which the Maserati flagship has become famous. Large amounts of aluminium are used in the construction of the chassis and body, considerably reducing weight, while special steel reinforcements ensure outstanding torsional rigidity, complementing the Quattroporte's long wheelbase.

The suspension consists of a double wishbone layout at the front and a multilink system at the rear, both of which are controlled by the latest version of the standard Sport Skyhook electronic suspension with new shocks featuring continuous damping variation. The new 8-speed ZF automatic transmission, with self-adapting software, is lighter and more efficient than the previous generation and introduces two overdrive gears specially developed to reduce fuel consumption and increase comfort at motorway speeds. The driver can select automatic mode or make gear changes manually by means of the steering-wheel shift paddles or the lever on the central tunnel. The new I.C.E. (Increased Control Efficiency) mode is designed for remarkable fuel economy and relaxed driving as well as extremely low grip conditions.

SOMETIMES CONFIDENCE IS NOT JUST A SENSATION

The assurance of safety and protection for passengers is fundamental to an enjoyable journey, so the Maserati Quattroporte is equipped with the very latest active and passive safety systems. The standard high-intensity Bi-Xenon front headlights have an integral rotation function that lights up the road and automatically aims the lamps into corners, increasing night-time cornering safety. The electronic unit controlling the low and high beams monitors a number of parameters and automatically adjusts the beam length to deliver the best visibility at all times.

The Maserati Stability Program (MSP), is an advanced electronic system which, if the vehicle begins to skid, reduces torque from the engine and activates the brakes to restore stability in just a few milliseconds. In terms of passive safety, the new Quattroporte is equipped with six airbags: two dual-stage front airbags for the driver and front passenger; two side airbags integrated in the front seats, to protect the hips and torsos of the front occupants. For lateral collisions, two additional side airbags installed in the roof, protect the heads of the front and rear occupants.

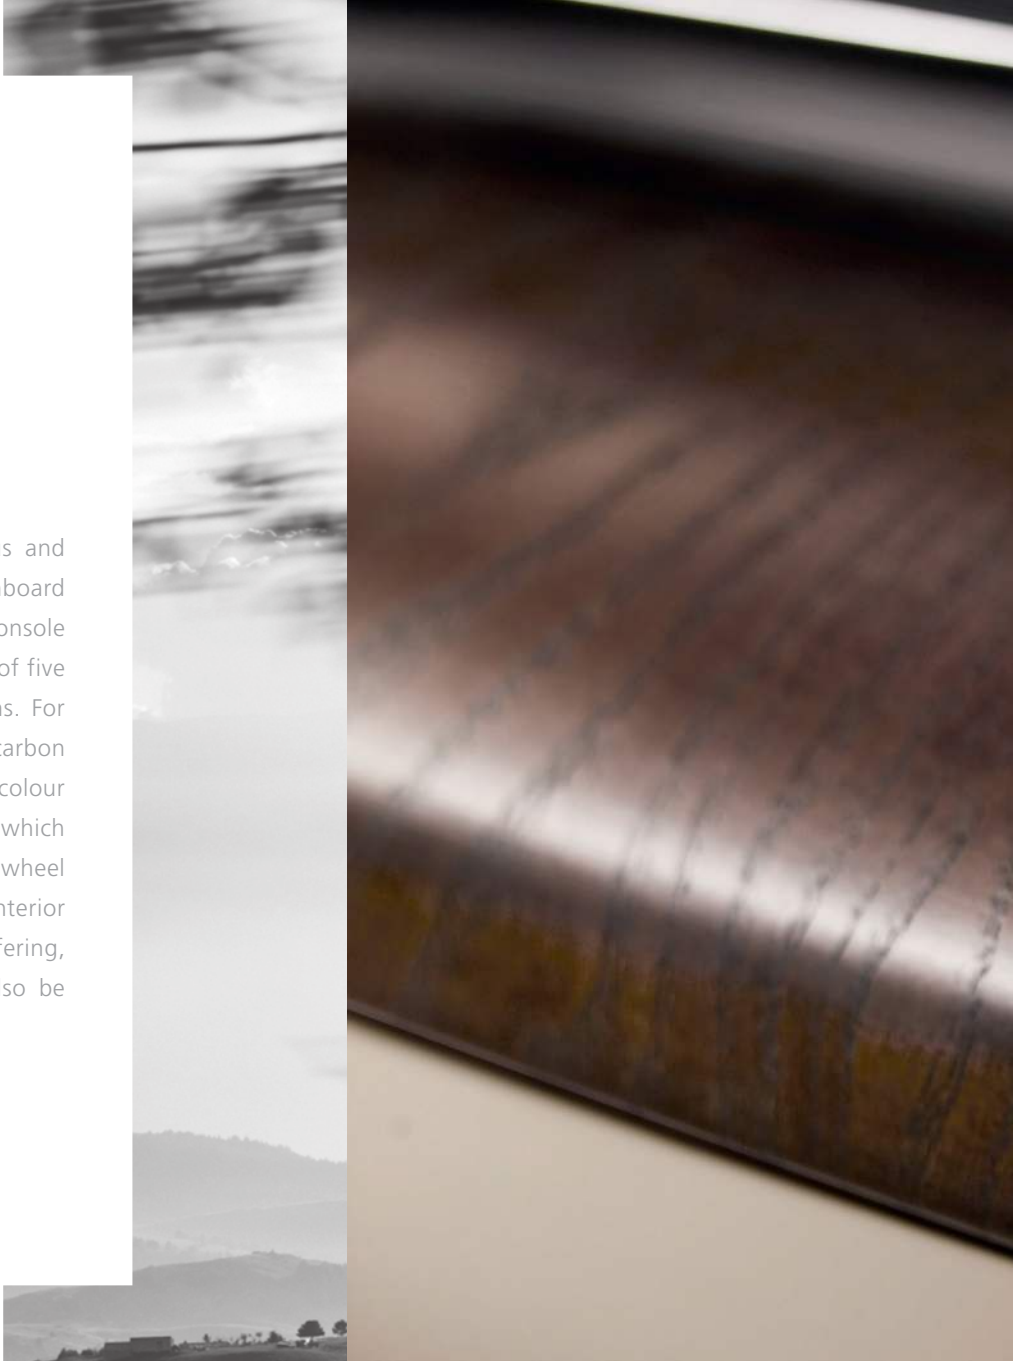

PERSONALITY NEVER GOES OUT OF FASHION

The Maserati Quattroporte's outstanding personalisation is the outcome of many small touches: adopting a tailor-made approach, the owner is able to choose from an array of colours and materials, to enhance the character of this Italian design gem. The completely updated range of exterior paint colours includes seven shades, which can be combined with three types of light alloy wheels and five brake calliper colours.

The interior of the Quattroporte is truly sumptuous and offers a vast choice of design combinations: the dashboard has a large central section which, like the centre console and door panel insets, can be finished with a choice of five different fine woods with very unique grain patterns. For those who prefer a more sporty-oriented look, gloss carbon fibre trim types are also available. The various colour combinations of the soft Poltrona Frau® leathers, which upholster the dashboard, console, doors and steering-wheel as well as the seats, allow the owner's specific interior atmosphere to be created. Beyond this standard offering, the central parts of the seats and the roof can also be finished with optional Alcantara®.
